Motion CL900 Tablet PC brought to you by Gamma Solutions

Melbourne March 29, 2011 Gamma Solutions today announced the launch of the new Motion CL900 tablet PC which is ready to be put to work straight from the box. The Motion CL900 is a rugged, lightweight and powerfully equipped tablet PC designed, developed and built for business.

The Motion CL900 has a 10–inch display equipped with Corning Gorilla Glass (a lightweight and durable display material), and an extended battery life which will last a full eight hour shift. Weighing less than 1kg the Motion CL900 tablet PC is the perfect requirement for the mobile worker’s needs.

“With an IP52 rating Gamma Solutions believes that the Motion CL900 tablet PC is a great addition to their already existing range of Motion tablet PCs” said Gamma Solutions’ Sales Executive, Stephen Lakey. “We believe this will be a very popular tablet with our mobile customers and for the price you can’t go wrong”

“We believe that this tablet PC will be the perfect solution for organisations who have a large mobile work force such as city councils and appliance repair personnel, as well as project managers on construction sites and healthcare workers just to name a few” continued Stephen.
